Nice little game, it shows promise and I just find it fresh and enjoyable to play that kind of a platformer in VR.

However the game's biggest problem is that the optimization is killing it, because the game is also difficult - it requires skills, precision and reflex, and the last two are overly tricky due to low FPS (the reaction/responsiveness isn't fast and smooth, making it that much harder to play). So honestly, I would give it a neutral review if I could, but since it does have potential like I mentioned, I'd rather recommend it to more people, in hope the developer will keep working on it and make it better.

Other things that could use some improvement is a lower detection range of those projectile shots - I'm getting killed when the ball is still a bit away from me, which can be frustrating. Also, please consider maybe having a checkpoint or two in the middle of a level - at least for now when the game is so hard. Or implement some other kind of "easy mode", because right now it takes a lot of enjoyment out of an otherwise really fun game ;)
